

Response from Jeff Gegner

Honestly, there seemed to be a race every weekend, that is a lot of races. Tough call, there is a big racing fleet now.

Also starting the racing season so early makes it tough on me and possibly a few others. I can't get my boat in at the start of the season. Maybe break the racing down into a short early season competition(May- mid June) then have a second summer season section. You could then have a winner of of each season, and average the two to find an overall winner. That would provide 3 seasonal winners each year with one top dog.

Overall the way the races were run, the committee boat etc. I thought were well planned and well executed. You did a heck of a job. While I am not as heavily involved as others, to me it seemed to run pretty much like clockwork. (even with one really stupid argument during the season).

The new flags are great, the horn is fantastic, the committee boat is terrific, all huge improvements over the previous year.

See you in the spring..

Jeff
